ÉDITION CAFÉ

English version

Welcome to your flat!

We're delighted you've chosen this flat and hope you will enjoy your stay.

In this booklet you'll find some useful information: the restaurants we love, the "no-no's" you shouldn't cross...

But before you start, you should know that you're here, at home, in the heart of Avignon's ramparts, on a square dating back to the 7th century.

The name Saint-Didier comes from the church of the same name, built around 1350 and typical of the Avignon Gothic style.

Its bell tower begins to vibrate when the sun sets, and 14 bells fill the air with their joyful, vibrant melody. But at any time of day, plane, elm and hackberry trees create a special atmosphere and a welcome coolness with their play of shadows.

This makes it a favourite meeting place for the people of Avignon, who love to stroll, picnic or hang out on the café terraces.

And if you feel like wandering around, you can leave the street and take :

- the rue des fourbisseurs, where you'll discover a host of merchants,
- the rue des 3 faucons, where you can perhaps take advantage of an ephemeral event organised by the Maisons de Vins du Rhône,
- The rue du Laboureur, where you can visit the Musée Angladon and admire works by Modigliani, Picasso, Van Gogh and Cézanne,
- Or the discreet, winding rue du Roi René, home to three magnificent Italian-style town houses.

🛏️ Where can I find bed linen and pillows for the sofa bed ?

Your apartment has a sofa bed that is ready for use, with a mattress protector and fitted sheet already in place.

To complete the bedding, you will find:

- duvet and duvet cover,
- 2 pillows,
- 2 large towels and 2 small towels,
stored on the cabinet in the bedroom.

Please only use what you need and leave unused items in their protective covers.

A quick reminder: bedspreads are not blankets, but decorative items intended to remain clean. They are a bit like a beautiful evening gown: you admire it, but you don't sleep in it. ☺

How do I get my television to work?

Thanks to the Chromecast, the television in your flat is a Smart TV. To take advantage of this, you first need to use the dark (or black) remote control to turn on the TV.

Once the TV is switched on, if you haven't already reached the Google TV home page, which looks like this:

Then press the 'on' button on the white remote.

- French channels (TNT) → open the Molotov app.
- Spanish channels → open the Movistar app.
- Other languages & music → go to YouTube

Tip: You can also explore the Google TV menu to access other apps and streaming services (Netflix, Prime Video, etc., if you have your login details).

Our culinary recommendations

Where to have breakfast?

The SAPA team is very divided on the subject...

If you're in favour of a continental breakfast, then head for le Grand Café Barretta, on the square.

If you're moderately hungry and think that breakfast shouldn't cost €10, then try Le Saint Chocolat, also in the square.

Further afield, on the Place Carnot, La Cigale also offers scrambled eggs, pancakes and freshly squeezed orange juice in a friendly atmosphere.

And if you're an early riser, you can enjoy your coffee at Le Goéland, the first place we know of to open at 7am in the city centre.

Where to have lunch or dinner?

Closet :

Le Grand café Barretta – 15 metres – €€€

A restaurant on the square sheltered by a HUGE hackberry tree, very practical for lunch on the terrace when the sun is beating down in midsummer. Legend has it that the restaurant has had Napoleon as a customer, and also on numerous occasions, and this is very reliable, the SAPA team. A limited menu of fresh produce and a fine choice of wines.

Première Édition – 50 metres – €€

With a warm atmosphere and attentive service, Première Édition offers generous bistro-nomic cuisine made with fresh, seasonal produce. The menu changes regularly, and each dish is beautifully presented without unnecessary frills. It's the kind of place where you feel at home and leave feeling full but with just enough room for a homemade dessert... which you absolutely must try..

To the most economical :

Vivotto – 150 metres – €

It's good, it's healthy, it's Italian, it can even be gluten-free and it's excellent value for money. What more could you ask for? Try it for lunch!
